

STEPHEN L. ASCHER, Partner

Stephen L. Ascher is co-chair of the firm's Securities Litigation and Enforcement Practice. Hedge funds, real estate companies, and other institutions have sought his help with a wide variety of disputes. He regularly tries cases in federal court, state courts throughout the United States, and arbitration proceedings.

Mr. Ascher's practice spans the gamut of securities and financial services litigation, from traditional 10b-5 class actions to disputes arising out of M&A transactions to fraud and contract claims by institutional plaintiffs. He frequently represents plaintiffs as well as defendants, including major financial institutions in structured finance disputes relating to CDOs, CMBS and derivatives. He has also represented hedge funds, private equity funds and their portfolio companies in matters relating to insider trading and other regulatory issues, as well as in commercial disputes. In addition to his practice in the financial services industry, Mr. Ascher has represented companies in commercial disputes in the real estate, health care, transportation and telecommunications industries, among others.

Mr. Ascher's current and recent representations include:

- Defending American Express in a class action arising out of the nonrenewal of its co-branding relationship with Costco. The complaint was dismissed on motion, and the dismissal was affirmed on appeal.
- Successfully representing a leading cannabis company in several disputes with minority investors and shareholders.
- Prosecuting a trade secrets claim on behalf of a biotech company against a Fortune 500 pharma company. Our client proved theft of its trade secrets.
- Prosecuting claims for Brookfield Asset Management relating to interest rate swaps. Brookfield resolved the claims for a $500 million gain.
- Representing hedge fund investors and special servicers in numerous disputes relating to CMBS and CDO transactions.
- Chesapeake Energy in a well-publicized trial against a trustee concerning the timeliness of a redemption of a $1.3 billion bond offering.
- A hedge fund in a trial against marketers who claimed an interest in the fund. The case settled favorably after Mr. Ascher's opening statement.
- A major US bank in several disputes with other financial institutions concerning CDOs. Our client recovered more than $100 million.
- A foreign institutional investor in claims against banks relating to structured finance investments. Our client has recovered more than $200 million.
- Several leading real estate firms in matters relating to the origination, sale, securitization, and servicing of commercial and residential mortgages.
