編集者記 / Editors' Note

Welcome to the June 2017 edition of the Jenner & Block Report, a digest of recent legal developments in the United States. We hope you find this publication interesting and helpful to your business or legal practice.

Our Featured Development article in this issue highlights a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision, limiting the awards fees to “the fees that party would not have incurred but for the bad faith.” In this edition, we also discuss the regulatory impact of legalizing casinos in Japan and review the Fairness in Class Action Litigation Act of 2017, which seeks to amend the procedures used in Federal class action and multidistrict litigation proceedings. This edition also provides an overview of the Committee on Foreign Investment (CFIUS) and their process for reviewing and imposing conditions on foreign investments.

Other articles in this issue cover a variety of topics, including the Trump Administration’s investigation of national security implications of steel and aluminum imports into the United States, the possible extension of the U.S. Department of Justice’s FCPA pilot program, and the Federal Circuit’s rejection of the argument that the details of the invention must be publicly disclosed in order for the on-sale bar to apply.

We hope that you find these summaries of interest and we thank you for taking the time to review the Jenner & Block Report.

Regards,

The Jenner & Block Team
